6.5.2. Equity securities risk, which is the risk, that materialize the capital loss induced by the market value of instruments and portfolio holdings, which value depends on equity prices.

6.5.4. Credit and default risk, which is the risk that a bond issuer will fail to pay interest and principal in a timely manner, or that negative perceptions of the issuer's ability to make such payments will cause the price of that bond to decline, thus reducing the Fund's return.

6.5.5. Liquidity risk, which is the risk that due to lack of marketability an investment cannot be bought or sold quickly enough to prevent or minimize a loss.

6.5.6. 6.5.7. Inflation risk, which arises from the decline in value of cash flows, measured in terms of purchasing power.

6.5.8. Country/regional/global risk, which is the risk that global, regional and/or country specific events, such as political upheaval, financial troubles, natural disasters, pandemics and other events, that cannot be predicted and prevented, will adversely affect the value of instruments issued by foreign governments, government agencies, or companies.
